Gossipy Letter from an Occasional Correspondent-Politics, Crops, and Matters in General.

PARIS, June 1 .- After a long, long silence, I guess I had better write you a very gossipy letter about politics, people, crops, candidates and things. Last crops, candidates and things. Last blonel James E. Bailey, who had been invited, as I understood, by some of the good citizens of Henry, addressed a large crowd in the courthouse. Colonel J. R. Hawkins, of Huntingdov, who is an open repudiator of the most pronounced stripe, was attending cours at Paris, and requested a division of time, which was granted. The discussion lasted two hours and forty minutes. Colonel Hawkins made an earnest effort in advocacy of repudiation, both of the State and national debts.

Colonel Balley did not pretend enswer all the points in Hawkins's speech, which consisted of very many points, supported by very many tortuous arguments, but made a very logical and pointed address to the attentive growd in favor of maintaining the State credit, and in favor of honesty and economy in the administration of the government. There is one class of men the State who are easily impressed with such arguments as are made by Hawkins, Savage & Co. This class is main'y made up of those who are desirous of dodging the payment of all taxes, and some who would like to repudiate all private debts, as they owe much to others and nobody owes them. It is no hard task to pursuade some men that they ought not to pay what they owe, and especially that they are under no obligations to pay money for any public

As usual, candidates for local offices are rather abundant. Several gentlemen in this county are anxious to represent the good people of Henry in the next legislature, but none of them are on a repudiation platform as yet.

The people of this section are out and ut in favor of Porter for next governor, and Atkins for congress. The crops i this section are very promising. Much less cotton than usual has been planted, but a decided increase of tobacco and grains. Wheat is abundant, and promises to be of a high grade. The farmers who made tobacco in this and adjoining counties have plenty of money, corn and becon, while our cotton men are flat. Old Henry is still Democratic, flatflooted, and always comes up right on election days. The APPEAL is not as freely circulated in this county as we would like to see it, but it is highly appreciated for its sound and aggressive independence on all questions of public So go ahead minding your p's and q's, and cross out one of your t's. You may whet your Damascus blade for the hottest fight you will have this side of the other country, after the great con-vention. With our very best wishes for the success of the Democratic national and State tickets, and mighty conquests for the great and good APPEAL, we will promise you another indiction early in

A United States Mail Steamship in the Slave Trade. Washington, June 3.—This morning Rev. Emanuel E. Van Orden called upon Sir Edward Thornton, and stated that the Nellie Martin, of the Star Ball line of steamers, running between New York and Rio de Janeiro, and belonging to an English company, though styled the United States mail steamship company, arrived in Rio de Janeiro on the first of March last, carrying slaves to be delivered. The British minister promised to inquire into the matter and report to his
